

BS Continues His Consistent Picking Streak

LF Holding Strong in Second; Are BS and LF Pulling Away?

Effective date: 2017-11-13

Week 10 saw yet another solid picking week from BS and LF, with 11 winners each. BS and LF have maintained the number one and two spots, respectively, for several weeks and both continue with the consistent picking. It appears - this week at least - that our top two may be pulling away from the pack a bit.

With the exception of DR, both BS and LF picked up at least one game on the entirety of membership in Week 10. Speaking of DR, he is our honorable mention recipient this week! DR was top dog this week with a fantastic 12 winners. Well done sir!

This coming week - Week 11 - is the final week of bye games, meaning that Week 12 will once again see 16 games per weekend. That could spell out opportunity to a worthy picker. That said, with their lengthening lead over the pack, unless a dark horse cometh, does it appear to be a two man race in the home stretch? Stay tuned.

Happy Picking

JP