

BS, SS, MM and DR cheers each other with 11 winners

BS puts 5200 wins under his belt

Effective date: 2018-10-02

We are officially a month into this NFL season and there has been plenty to talk about. We have seen games end in ties, we have seen rookie quarterbacks take the league by storm, we have seen kickers lose their jobs for not being able to seal the deal late in games, and we have even seen the Browns win a game... All things that aren't expected to be the norm moving forward, but make for great sports talk radio while also causing some members headaches on Sunday afternoons. Oh how we love this game!

That being said, Headaches were few and far between in week 4 as 9 of 14 members notched double digits in the win column. BS, SS, MM and DR lead the way with 11 victories and an honorable mention goes to PM who had his first double digit win performance of his career with 10 winners of his own. Not too shabby young fella.

Also noteworthy, BS makes headlines again as he captured his 5200th win on Monday evening, Kudos to this seasoned vet!

In loner news, for the 4th consecutive week we have at least 2 loners to mention. Regular to the loner pick game, NF takes a stab at ARZ who leaves him empty-handed, safe to say he will have another shot sooner than later. BD has better luck and strikes gold with TEN upsetting PHI with a last minute score in OT. It will be interesting to see if loner picks continue at this high of a clip.

We press on to Week 5 which promises more of the same!

Happy Picking,

LF, The Pimp
