

CM and MS run away with 13 wins; CM well on his way

KB takes the stage as he joins the 2000 win club

Effective date: 2019-12-25

Hello and welcome to the 2019 Christmas edition of the PFVCC weekly write-up.. Hopefully everyone has enjoyed the holiday unwrapping gifts, indulging in good food and making memories with those closest to them.. And although Christmas is all about family, some of us can't help but have football on our minds.. Well for most of us, and I mean everyone but CM, we have settled on the fact that 2019 just might not be the year to have our name engraved on the elusive PFVCC Championship Trophy, but that doesn't take away from our holiday cheer. A couple lads that enjoyed a fruitful holiday week were our friends CM (go figure) and MS who both slashed 13 win weeks. Behind another strong performance CM has taken a stranglehold on the top spot and left only a single breath left for the competition to gasp for, while MS moved himself just 3 games out of the second spot. Both deserving of a well done! SR also had himself a solid 12 win performance which has him nipping at MS' heels for that third spot on the podium. This thing looks to be wrapped up and just waiting for a bow to be placed on top.. Perfectly fitting for the season.

Loner news was quiet in week 16 as BS was the only brave soul to select one, however bravery comes at a cost as he wasn't successful with his CHI over KC pick. Can't win 'em all, but we like the shake-up, BS! On the flip side, KB deserves some recognition for joining the 2000 win crew, which is no small feat. Congrats KB!!

One week to go, so lets all finish this thing out strong! Best of luck in the final campaign and a very Merry Christmas to you and your families!

Still Pimpin',

LF
