

MS dazzles with 10 wins and 2 loners to boot

4 members put up 9 wins; DP's lead gets cut in half in the process

Effective date: 2023-12-05

Week 13 was a battle through and through, both for membership and NFL teams alike. The first football weekend in December didn't disappoint as we were gifted some tightly contested matchups and some critical GOO to track. MS was the man of the week as he hauled in 10 wins to lead the way as the only double digit winner. He continues to battle and has found a spark in the loner picking game (spoiler alert) that was enough to give him the edge here in week 13. With a climb ahead of him, expect to see some more loner pick magic from MS. LF, KS, NF and CM were our 9 win members, and along with MS were our "movers" on the leaderboard. Very respectable weeks from those mentioned above and the type of performances to build positive momentum on heading into the final five weeks. Momentum is everything at this point of the season and a pick here and a win there could be the difference when its all said and done. Let's see who can stay at the top of their game...This week belonged to MS. Who's next?

The biggest loner this week, you guessed it, was MS. Two of his ten victories came at the hand of teams that only MS had the confidence in. Going 2/3 total on the week, GB- an emerging loner favorite, and CIN took care of business. Phenomenal picking MS! DP and PM weren't so lucky as both of their picks fell short. For both PM and DP the risk wasn't worth the reward, but rest assured they will bounce back soon!

Week 14 approaches and we are headed downhill with no brakes. In a season that has felt like a blur and five weeks left to crown a champ...This is what we live for!! Goodluck everyone!

Your President,

LF