

LF Wins 11 To Try To Get His Momentum Going

7 Members Snag 10 In a Ho-Hum Week 6

Effective date: 2025-10-14

Just one week removed from a sketchy week 5, membership bounced back nicely. No one broke away from the pack in a big way, however the current champ, LF quietly led all pickers with 11 victories. If you asked him he'd tell you that it's been an underwhelming start to the season to this point but maybe this is enough to get the two-time champ back on track. From celebrating in the Penthouse just a short time ago, he'd like nothing more than to snag the keys from SS...but for now that will have to wait. SS himself, along with CM, MS, NF, BS, MM and DJ all brought in a 10 spot of their own which meant minimal movement was made on the leaderboard. With MIP nightmares disrupting members' sleep the last week everyone is just happy to see a positive number in the win column and keep this thing moving. With a third of the book now written for the season it's time to see what everyone's made of. Many questions still hang in the balance and to this point SS has had more answers than the rest. He sits and enjoys his Diet Coke and daily newspaper in the Penthouse Library, studying for what should be an action packed week 7.

DP, MM and NF were our bold loners and the score was settled at 2 wins and 2 losses. Unfortunately for DP he was the odd man out. MM grabbed a win with CHI and NF went wax on wax off with a CAR win and an SF loss. Well played to MM and NF! We know you both live for loner magic!

Another week ends which means another opportunity presents itself. Who will answer the call this time?

Your President & Champ,

LF
