

KS & SS Are Roomies Once Again; KS Leads The Week

The Plot Thickens As The Race Tightens At The Top

Effective date: 2025-10-22

Week 7 came to an end and on Tuesday during SS' regimented early morning routine he noticed that grab bars had been installed in the master bath of the Penthouse. Before he could question how they had gotten there he heard a voice from behind him "how do you like 'em?". KS was standing in the doorway with a robe on and a cup of coffee in hand. SS responded, "I guess I should've guessed you'd be back". SS was right as KS' 13 win performance was enough to grant him access to the Penthouse and put him in charge of fixture decisions..much to SS' dismay. A huge week for KS and one that speaks to the grittiness that he has. Well played sir! LF, NF, BS and PM all brought in 12 wins and were able to climb a step closer to the top spot. With all of them within striking distance, we will see who can take advantage of the opportunity and who will fold under pressure.

We had 4 loner picks among 4 different members in week 7 and this is how the results went. DJ, DP and MM all suffered losses while LF selected correctly by picking DAL over WAS. A big win for LF as he continues his climb to try to reach the penthouse again. For the others, they head back to the drawing board to see if they can right the loner ship in week 8 and beyond.

Headed toward the halfway point of the season and it's safe to say that it's moving fast. Still plenty of football to be played, but if you get complacent you may be left behind. Who will step up and who will step off? Perhaps week 8 knows?

Your President & Champ,

LF